

Ownership of media outlets largely equals control of media outlets. Control of media outlets by a small number of individuals or organizations gives them excessive political and social power. For these reasons, allowing a few companies to monopolize the media is as unacceptable to freedom of speech as allowing the government to control the media.

Media corporations are already too large. They should be broken up. Please resist any trends toward media monopolies.

Thank you for the opportunity to express these views.

Earl Munday